

YOUTH UNMOVED AS COURT SETS LIFE SENTENCE

Johannes Borgwardt Taken to Ohio Penitentiary Today

COURT OVERRULES DEFENSE MOTION

Prisoner Has Nothing To Say As Sentence Is Passed

LISBON, Dec. 10.—The final entry in the county's most sensational murder trial of recent years was written at 10 a. m. today when Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones sentenced Johannes Borgwardt, 23-year-old slayer of Mrs. Ruth Cranshaw, to the Ohio penitentiary for life.

Sentence was passed by Judge Lones after he had overruled a motion for a new trial filed by H. J. McCarthy of Salem, one of the defense attorneys.

The motion, a technicality, was made on the grounds that the verdict was contrary to the evidence presented at the trial.

Borgwardt Unmoved
Borgwardt, garbed in the same light grey suit he wore throughout his six-day trial, heard the sentence and was unmoved.

Following the verdict of guilty of second degree murder, returned by the jury of eight women and four men hearing the case, Borgwardt expressed satisfaction with the outcome of the case. His comments this morning indicated no change of feeling.

When the judge asked, after pronouncing sentence, if he had anything to say, the German youth replied, "No, your honor."

The prisoner was taken to Columbus immediately after sentence by Sheriff Harry Gosey and Deputy John Herman. The trio made the trip by auto.

Back at county jail shortly before starting the trip to Columbus, Borgwardt puffed on a cigar someone had given him. He was handcuffed.

POLICE HUNT KIDNAP SYNDICATE

Alleged Slayers of Brooklyn Girl, Others, Escape Net

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press) PARIS, Dec. 10.—Roger "Scarface" Million and Jean "The Little One" LeBlanc, sought by police as accomplices in a slaying-kidnaping gang which numbered among its victims Jean De Koven, Brooklyn dancer, surrendered to police today.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The asserted scarface chief of an abduction-death syndicate, whose "expert in murder" slew Jean De Koven, Brooklyn dancer, was sought today by roving patrols along the highways of southeastern France.

With him, police said, were his mistress and a third suspect. Judiciary police first had announced their capture, but later changed this to say the three had fled their hotel at Nantua last night.

The trio fled, police said, after a mysterious telephone call to their apartment.

Leader Identified
Authorities identified the alleged leader of the band that sought to build an efficient, profitable business on kidnapping and death as Roger Million, a Frenchman.

His mistress, police said, was a blonde Frenchwoman.

Authorities believed Million to be the man who employed Eugene Weidmann, 29-year-old German ex-convict, as the killer for the gang. It was Weidmann's confession that he strangled Miss De Koven, an American dancer, which led to establishment of the identity of the gang. A fourth member of the original syndicate in crime had been shot to death by the former German ex-convict. Police said the victim was Fritz Frommer.

The killing of Miss De Koven and Frommer were but two of the curiously-haired German's confessed ventures into wholesale murder. Three other men fell under his gun.

Investigators expressed belief Million, the alleged gang leader, could be identified as a man with whom Weidmann talked in the lobby of a Paris hotel last July before he lured the Brooklyn dancer girl to the bands "villa of death" in suburban St. Cloud.

Pass Girl's Checks
The detectives also believed Million and the blonde were the man and woman who passed several of the $500 worth of traveler's checks which Weidmann took after slaying the American girl.

There was still the possibility, the officers said, of connecting Million and the woman with two of Weid-

POSTAL STAFF IS KEPT BUSY

Windows Open All Day; Carriers To Make Two Trips to Expedite Yule Mail Movement

Windows at the postoffice will remain open all day Saturday instead of closing at the usual Saturday deadline of 1 p. m. in order to accommodate persons mailing Christmas letters and packages.

Carriers will make two trips Saturday and parcel post will be delivered all day. Postmaster A. E. Beardsmore said today.

While the money order window at the postoffice will close at 5 p. m. Saturday, the registry window, stamp, general delivery and parcel post windows will remain open until 6.

The postoffice today made complaint in connection with the mailing of parcels sealed with gummed paper tape that is not strong enough to withstand handling in the mails.

While gummed paper tape may be used for sealing fourth class parcels, senders also should see that the packages are securely tied with strong twine.

Miss Jane Guy Way Succumbs In Lisbon

LISBON, Dec. 10.—Miss Jane Guy Way, 58, prominent in various activities here, died at 9:15 a. m. today at her home, E. Washington st., following a paralytic stroke suffered a week ago Tuesday.

When she failed to come to work at the Columbia County Mutual Insurance Co., where she had been employed for 36 years, friends went to her home, where they found her unconscious.

Born in Lisbon, she was the daughter of Nicholas and Martha Johnson Way. She attended school here and was active in the Methodist church. She was church organist for several years and was a member of the D. A. R. and the Monday club.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Harry Cook, of Pittsburgh.

The funeral service will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at her late home, in charge of Rev. C. N. Church of Alliance, former Lisbon M. E. minister, assisted by Rev. C. W. Kennedy, present pastor. Burial will be in Lisbon cemetery.

Jean de Koven

Mystery shrouding the disappearance in Paris last July of beautiful Jean de Koven, 22, American dancer, was solved when her body was found in an isolated villa in Versailles. She was one of five victims allegedly slain by a mad German, Sigfried Sauerbrey-Weidmann, 29, whose "Bluebeard career" was motivated by a desire to obtain money.

STOP-GAP BILL GOES TO SENATE

Survives House Insurrection That Nearly Wrecks It

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—The administration's $1,000,000 stop-gap relief bill to finance the present needs of local subdivisions headed today toward the senate after surviving a rural insurrection in the house that nearly wrecked it.

The 92 votes necessary for its passage as an emergency measure were obtained only after continuous roll calls caused several members reluctantly to change their positions.

Previously a sufficient number of rural legislators, ignoring party lines, had refrained from voting or opposed passage long enough to endanger its emergency status.

Voicing his opposition, Representative Kenneth M. Petri (D., Crawford) said:

"As long as we have stop-gap bills we never will have a permanent relief program. If we pass the bill, we will be asked to pass another about January 1."

"We had better precipitate a crisis now by refusing to make this appropriation and thereby force speedy enactment of a permanent relief program."

The emergency clause eventually was adopted 93 to 21 and the bill itself passed 93 to 7. It will be considered by the senate when it reconvenes at 5 p. m. Monday. If passed by the senate it would become effective upon receiving the governor's signature under emergency provisions.

The bill would appropriate $1,000,000 from the state's general revenue fund to the state emergency board for distribution to the counties on the basis of their present relief requirements, such allocations to be deducted from their future grants from the sales tax funds set aside for relief next year.

Accident Victim Reported Better
The condition of William Trepo, 28, of Lorain, one of two men injured when their automobile skidded on icy Route 14, three and one-half miles east of Salem Tuesday, was reported critical at Salem City hospital today. He is suffering from a head injury.

John Zicarelli, 32, also of Lorain and driver of the car, was dismissed from the hospital yesterday. He received a jaw injury.

Pensions Approved

TIFFIN, Dec. 10.—Action of Heidelberg college trustees assured retired faculty members today of pensions. A committee headed by Dr. H. V. Shinn of Toledo and Dr. Melvin E. Beck of North Canton was named to draw up a pension program.

KENNEDY URGES RELIEF PLANS ON LONG RANGE

Secretary of State Addresses Commissioners Here

ASSAILS PRESENT STOP-GAP METHOD

Conrad Berg named President of Northeast Ohio Group

Secretary of State William Kennedy, addressing members of the Northeastern Ohio Commission association at their annual dinner meeting Thursday afternoon in the Elks home here, said "it is time now to start long-range planning on relief."

He termed relief "the greatest problem facing county commissioners and other public officials today."

Kennedy, explaining that certain persons now on relief will be on the needy rolls forever, said "there is too much done in the state about stop-gap relief; too much thinking of the present rather than the future. If a long-range relief program had been mapped years ago, it wouldn't be such a problem and headache today. And it's up to the various branches of the government to provide for these needy persons."

Too Many On Government
"Too many people," he said, however, "are leaning on the various governmental agencies for dependence, such as the WPA, FERA, etc. A lot of these men and women should establish their own resources, rather than depend on the government to support them."

The speaker suggested that a more careful analysis be made of each relief case in order that the most worthy may be selected and "relief chiselers" eliminated.

Pointing out that the government in the State of Ohio costs $15,000,000 a day to run, including every political subdivision and agency, the secretary of state called upon the commissioners, as well as all other officials, to economize in an effort to reduce this tremendous overhead.

He concluded his talk with a reference to the foreign "isms," such as Nazism, Fascism and Communism, which he condemned, saying

MRS. BRICKER, 66, LISBON RD., DIES

Sister of Judge W. L. Hart Succumb At Home; Funeral To Be Held Sunday

Mrs. Frank Bricker, 66, died at 9:45 p. m. Thursday at her home on the Salem-Lisbon rd., four miles north of Lisbon. She had been in failing health for more than a year. Death came unexpectedly following a heart attack.

The daughter of B. F. and Ariel Dreghorn Hart, Mrs. Bricker was born in the Hart home, near Highland, Ohio, on Oct. 19, 1871. She taught school for a number of years prior to her marriage on Jan. 1, 1903.

Mrs. Bricker had lived in the vicinity of Lisbon for the past 35 years. She was a member of the St. Jacob's Reformed church and Mt. Nebo grange.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by three sisters, Misses Margaret and Bertha Hart of Lisbon, now living in St. Petersburg, Fla., and Mrs. George B. Clark of Lisbon, and four brothers, Judge W. L. Hart, Alliance, Charles G. Hart of Leota, Fred G. Hart of Ravenna and Raymond Hart of Salem.

The funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the St. Jacob's Reformed church in charge of Rev. Ray Kingsley, pastor. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Friends may call at the home Saturday afternoon and evening.

Seniors Score Success In Play Of Chinese Life

Introduce New Type of Production Here; Second Performance Scheduled Tonight

The first presentation of the highly entertaining senior class play, "The Yellow Jacket," given last evening in the High school auditorium, won the general applause of a large audience.

The production will be repeated at 8:15 tonight. Principal Harold Williams announced today that those attending the performance should be there by curtain time because no one will be seated after the opening. It is hoped in this way to avoid interruption of the play by late arrivals.

"The Yellow Jacket" is a type of play never seen here before. The story of the life of a Chinese boy, it is unfolded in true Chinese theater style with characters introducing themselves to the audience, explaining their purpose in appearing and unfolding the story as the play progresses.

In accord with the Chinese dramatic tradition, scenery and properties are not needed but are left to the imagination of the audience.

Traces Life of Prince
The story continuity traces the life of a young Chinese prince, driven from his home and parents. He is reared by a poor farmer and his wife, who keep him in ignorance of the fact that his rightful position is as ruler of the province.

The young man sets out to find adventure and to learn his identity. The halfbrother occupying the throne sets temptations and obstacles in the path of the young prince but in the end he finds love and fortune.

All costumes, properties and settings used in the play are products of the workmanship of High school students and show much ingenuity and cleverness in execution.

Former Gov. Alf M. Landon Will Not Be Candidate For 1940 Presidential Nomination

Scenes Like This Are Common

And Won't Accept It, He Says, Even If It's Offered To Him

OUTLINES PLANS IN WASHINGTON

Declares Himself So He Can Be More Active Politically

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Former Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas said today he would not be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940 and would not accept the nomination should it be offered to him.

The 1936 nominee made the announcement to newspapermen upon arrival here for the Gridiron club, a newspapermen's organization, dinner.

Will Be More Active
Landon emphasized, however, that his statement did not mean that he was withdrawing from politics.

"I am taking this step so I can be more active in Republican party affairs," he said.

Soon after he reached the capitol the governor was invited by a White House secretary, by telephone, to visit President Roosevelt at 4:30 p. m.

The purpose of that conference of two opponents in last year's presidential election was not immediately disclosed. Landon will be accompanied by Senator Capper (R., Kas.).

Surrounded by many newspapermen who accompanied him on campaign trips in 1936 Landon smilingly said:

"It looks as if everyone in the gang except myself has a job in Washington."

Acts Misconstrued
Asked if he wanted to take "another whirl" at the Republican nomination, Landon hesitated a second, then said:

"It is presumptuous to decline something that has not been offered to one. A short time ago I would not have answered this question. However, recent developments have convinced me that my acts, as a citizen, as the 1936 Republican candidate, frequently had been misconstrued."

"For that reason and because personalities frequently confuse the clear-cut consideration of problems in politics, I am glad to answer the question without any equivocation whatsoever."

"I have not had any intention of being a candidate in 1940 and in order that my position may be perfectly clear I will not accept the nomination in the remote contingency that the Republican national convention should offer it to me."

"I say this with full regard and appreciation of that high honor and feel it incumbent upon me to take this position in the stead of keeping faith with the millions who have trusted me with their confidence."

"A man who is in the position of being suspected of being either an active, or receptive candidate cannot render the service either to his party or to his country that I conceive to be my patriotic duty and responsibility in the critical situation confronting us."

3,000 May March In East Liverpool's Jap Protest Parade

EAST LIVERPOOL, Dec. 10.—Capt. F. X. A. Eble, president of the Made in America Club, Inc., of New York, will head an afternoon speaking program on the Japanese boycott campaign at the Ceramic theater Monday.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will deliver an evening address from the same platform following the huge community parade sponsored by the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

James M. Duffy, in Washington attending hearings on the Walsh-Healey labor bill, is making an effort to bring additional nationally-prominent figures here for Monday's demonstration.

Three or four thousand marchers will parade Monday night, demonstrating against Japanese merchandise, Thomas Cartwright, chairman of the N. B. O. P. parade committee, announced today.

$16,987 Allotted For Sewing Project
Congressman Lawrence Imhoff announced today that the federal government had allocated a total of $16,987 for a Columbiana county WPA sewing project.

Those connected with the project at Lisbon said the money would finance the project's operation and maintenance through next July.

IT'S A DATE

Dec. 10 is the final date for property owners to arrange for payment of delinquent taxes under the Whittemore 10-year payment plan law. The act expires then.

The assistance it offers to taxpayers who have fallen behind in their payments should be accepted. Tax delinquency is one of the consequences of the depression which must be dealt with realistically.

That means property owners with ability to pay should be expected to do so. The Whittemore law was passed to help them meet their obligation. Its purpose was to help the owner protect his title.

SAME OLD PLACE

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, home after two years of living abroad, haven't explained the reason for their visit, or whether it is to be more than a visit.

That leaves their countrymen temporarily free to believe that they wanted to be at home for the holidays, that despite the reasons for their exile they think this is the best place on earth to be when Christmas is coming.

Because this happens to be the way most Americans feel at this season of the year, it probably is the way the Lindberghs feel, too. It was their bad luck to run into certain misfortunes and annoyances whose memory they tried to blot out by going abroad to live. If, after this long a time they are coming back to enjoy again the more pleasant aspects of life here, that's the way it should be.

WITHOUT CASUALTY

America's faith in roundtabling isn't shaken seriously by the fact John L. Lewis and William Green didn't emerge from their personal conferences last week all rosy and smiling.

Hardly anyone expected them to patch up their differences. What was expected was they would rub each other the wrong way and go skyrocketing and pinwheeling off into space. That didn't happen—and it's something.

Particularly it is something to the rank and file followers of the two men, because many rank and filers apparently have grown tired of listening to their abuse each other. Not sharing their leaders' grievances, they couldn't understand why the head men hated each other so much.

So evidence, even negative evidence, that their differences aren't so deep they can't talk to each other at least as successfully as the ambassadors of two warring governments is highly encouraging.

RECIPE FOR RECOVERY

A businessman occasionally says "woof" tentatively these days and, when nothing happens, goes so far as to stick his head out of the doghouse where Mr. Roosevelt told him to stay.

There even is a rumor that Mr. Roosevelt is so busy trying to put back the plug which someone pulled on the new deal boom he may ask businessmen to help him.

Radicals, plinks, bitter enders, forgotten men, Rooseveltians, the "underprivileged third" and professional new dealers to the contrary notwithstanding, a country divided against itself can't get anywhere, let alone to Utopia. Businessmen and industrialists are employers. The people Mr. Roosevelt is particularly devoted to in his political role are employees. They can't be helped by making it difficult for them to be given jobs.

There must be some relenting in order to save Mr. Roosevelt's face. The one thing he cannot withstand is depression, because he won election in 1932 on an anti-depression platform and has stood there ever since. His ability to see this is the key to the whole situation.

Strangely, it is Lamont du Pont of THE du Ponts who offers the best suggestion. "What has been done, wisely or unwisely," he says, "is behind us. Let us leave it there. It is no time for post mortems."

Even Mr. Roosevelt might concede this is a generous idea, coming after four years of stone throwing from the steps of the White House to the entrance of the doghouse, where the du Ponts were chained by political edict. Equal generosity on his part would go far toward clearing the air.

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, December 11

A day of conflicting auguries is indicated by the prevailing planetary configurations. While there are signs of decided gain and prosperity, there are also omens of sudden and hasty moves, excitement, some duplicity and a sorrow or bereavement. The latter may account for the unexpected prosperity, through a bequest, inheritance or trust. Keep calm and be especially tactful with superiors and employers.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of contradictory circumstances, with much gain and prosperity, but also a sorrow or bereavement. The gain may arise from such a source as a will, insurance, trust or property or business inheritance. Refrain from rash or offensive conduct with superiors or employers.

Maiden Aunt (in store)—Now I—er—want a nice toy, please, suitable for a small boy whose father is very corpulent and unable to do any kneeling—Pathfinder.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—Thoughts while strolling. Conversation we'd like to hear—Margery Wilson, the charm lady, and Dale Carnegie, the success fellow, talking things over. Al Shean—remember him and his funny hat with Mr. Gallagher? Now he is playing sombre priestly roles.

Nobody can make funnier faces than Mayor La Guardia and few can look more dignified. And not many can sit at a typewriter and write about nothing at all more entertainingly than Bruno Lessing. Phyllis Haver's wide-eyed look of innocent surprise. Out of an Oppenheim novel: Jules Bache.

Informed-without-being-ponderous announcer: Deems Taylor. Newest stage honey the blades want to squire: Joy Hedges. Those dull blue pebble cloth suits Adolphe Menjou effects. But nobody seems to go for his dinky-bosomed stiff shirts with the horizontal stripes.

Staunch pals of the Rialto: William Gaxton and Victor Moore. Few so democratic can look so uppity as Bernard Baruch. And no reporter in any era has wangled more publicity than Lucius Beebe unless perhaps Richard Harding Davis. The bleating Dr. George Rockwell is as shy as a school girl off stage.

Grandma name for gossipers: Pritkins. Broadway's only chop house lady, Helen Gallagher—and quick on the come-back. And a few blocks further the lawyer, Lucille Pugh, and mannish costume. A woman's world. Oh, Mr. Valentine, those Valentino looking boys with long sideburns are all over town again!

The New York woman no longer rouges her cheek, save on stage and cabaret chorus. A master beautician is speaking. Bright lips and nails prevail—Lynn Fontanne is doing her nails in solid black, by the way. But nowhere on the boulevard is the painted cheek. But west of Jersey City—the beautician again talking—the rouge pot flourishes. In some sections of the middle west they not only smear it on their cheeks but in instances circle red around their eyes and across the forehead. The late Mrs. Leslie Carter was the first woman I ever saw apply rouge. It was during a dressing room interview, and somehow my cheeks got as red as hers.

Incidentally, one of the lesser Emily Posts who coaches Gold Coast youngsters in their shall-nots, lets the bars down on chewing gum. For many years gum chewing among the girls was confined to the "dese" and "dem" damsels of the Bowery beer joints. But today gum chewing in moderation is all right. That is to say, on the golf course, in bathing or motor. Will Rogers did much to uplift chewing gum socially. If a grand fellow such as Bill was could chew gum anywhere, it was difficult to make it seem gauche.

Elsie De Wolfe, in private Lady Mendil, is regarded by many as about the best dressed elderly socialite. Not only in New York, but London and Paris. Silver-haired but with a youthful figure, she is a head-turner wherever she appears. Miss De Wolfe does not come into a restaurant. She makes an entrance. So profound even cashiers halt in change making. The only person to match her for the grand entrance was Ethel Barrymore. There was something psychic about it. Several times at the Algonquin I have seen the entire dining room stop eating and for no reason at all begin watching the entrance. In a few seconds Miss Barrymore, cool, haughty and thoroughly detached, would sweep in. Perhaps enroute to her table she would indulge a rocking little laugh. It might not have been studied, but I suspect it was. Anyway, it was a grand bit of acting.

Friends of Natacha Rambova, the former Winifred Hudnut, hear she is still in Spain, living near the French border and devoting her life to caring for the destitute and wounded. She married a Spaniard and was living at care-free Majorca when hell broke loose. Her husband is still in the fighting. Miss Rambova is said to have grown quite plump and her hair has turned gray. She is still vastly interested in spiritualism.

Pull of the pooch: There were three sad-eyed Scotties in a dog shop window in the 40's at 11 o'clock the other morning. At 4 that afternoon all were gone. The lady in charge said one was purchased around noon by a richly furred customer who came in a limousine. Two hours later she came back for the other two. "I simply could not bear to be the cause of their separation," she said. Each pup was priced at $100.

Appendicitis
I JUST had a letter from a reader who wrote concerning the treatment of appendicitis. It is so similar to many of the letters I receive that I want to bring it to your attention. The writer states, "I am writing in regard to appendicitis. If it is caught as soon as it is first noticed, could it be relieved of its poisons and cured without an operation? ... I have read of people taking one quart of onion juice and been relieved of appendicitis. Is this true?"

So many theories have been advanced and fantastic treatments recommended for the treatment of appendicitis that it is easy to be misled. The only dependable cure is removal of the diseased organ. Like any other structure of the body, once it is diseased it becomes a definite hindrance to health and usually a menace. Has No Function
Fortunately, the appendix, unlike many other parts of the body, can be removed without any ill effect. Indeed, it appears to have no function and is really an unnecessary annex to the body. That is why its removal bears no relationship to the physical welfare. On the contrary, a pus-infected appendix is seriously detrimental to health and life.

It is unfortunate that there is so much confusion about the treatment of appendicitis. I say "unfortunate" because the danger of appendicitis lies in its neglect, particularly in the delay of operation if that is needed.

It is probable that a great deal of the confusion about what to do can be traced to the universal dread of an operation. Too many persons resort to all other means of relief in the effort to escape an operation. I can readily understand this attitude of mind, but the danger of postponement is so great that its evil possibilities must not be overlooked.

Danger In Neglect

Abdominal pain, nausea, gas, constipation and other digestive disturbances are suspicious symptoms. If your doctor decides they are due to a diseased appendix, do not delay the operation if he advises it. If you suffer such ailments and have not consulted with the doctor, do so at once. Do not neglect needed medical attention. Bear in mind that what may appear to you to be a trivial affair, possibly an upset stomach, may actually indicate the onset of acute appendicitis.

Taking a drastic cathartic may serve to rupture the appendix and lead to serious complications. Take no medicine unless your doctor prescribes it.

Let me reassure you about the operation for the removal of a diseased appendix; it is indeed a simple procedure when performed early. There is only danger after the appendix has ruptured or where there has been delay in operation.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

MORE ANGLERS GO TO SEA FOR SPORT THRILLS

Old Gulf Stream Skipper Expects 1938 to Be Record Year

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Capt. W. W. Howard of Miami Beach, known as "Pop" to the veteran skippers of the world's most luxurious fleet of charter boats for angling, forecasts that 1938 would be the greatest year in the history of salt water game fishing.

"The anglers and what we call the tourists—the first-trip salt water fishermen—are getting here earlier this year than they ever before and there are more of them," said Howard, who argues that ocean game fishing is fastest growing sport in the United States today. "We've had fishermen here from every state this fall and, more important from our standpoint, a big percentage of them are persons who tried the sport last year for the first time and are now staunch salt water anglers."

Miami Beach, according to Howard, is the salt water angling barometer of the nation. A good winter season here means that the same thing can be figured on later in Jersey, Long Island and as far north as the Canadian coast.

"Salt water angling got its start down here," he said. "And we've watched it come along from a sport which only the wealthy could afford to the present time when hundreds of thousands engage in it. It's not necessary to hook the family jewels to hook into a saltfish run more."

The captains who operate out of the Miami Beach fishing dock, he explained, have a standard charter rate of $35 a day.

"Four anglers can fish comfortably from a boat," he said. "By making up a party of six and taking turns at the rods, the cost per person can be reduced to less than $8. We furnish all the tackle, lures and bait. All you have to bring along is your lunch and there's a refrigerator for the beer. Sometimes we even help drink it."

Howard said that many people new to the sport, in their eagerness to meet and conquer a big game fish, frequently overlook the fun to be had with smaller fishes.

"The dolphin is an example," he asserted. "There's a real game fish, probably the fastest thing that swims. And jump—they're all over the place. Kingfish is another flashy fighter and as game as they come, and the bonita is about as tricky a fish to handle as you'd want to see. Then there's the mahi-mahi—the fightingest fish there is, pound for pound. He's a real savage and if you land him, you're good. A good small fish hooked on to a light rod and a light line furnishes just as many thrills as the biggest fish in the ocean will in heavy tackle."

Surf-fishermen, those who stand where the foaming water washes the beach and cast beyond the white capped breakers, find sport here too for bluefish, cro mackerel, blue runners, pompano and kingfish among the species that feed in the breaking water. Miami also has a new $50,000 fishing pier where hundreds of small types of fish can be caught with rod and reel and handline.

"Every year more people are learning that for real fishing you can't beat the ocean," he said. "Told that a lot of fresh water fishermen would give him an argument on that," "Pop" replied. "As far as fresh water fishing is concerned, I like to drop a bucket on a salmon's nose as well as any man, and I guess I've waved a dry fly at as many trout as most folks, but good fresh water fishing is getting scarcer every day. The ocean is different. There are 600 kinds of fish in these waters."

LONDON — British canners say that their industry is sufficiently well organized to remove fear of starvation by blockade in time of war. At the International Grocers' Exhibition in London, a fifth of the space was given over to the industry, and the canners between them showed 350 varieties of tinned food.

Lost Two Years

James Saunders

Stricken with amnesia while riding to Akron, O., to seek work, James Saunders, 47, of Cincinnati, wandered the country for more than two years without knowing his identity. His "spell" ended in Los Angeles with correction of a dislocated vertebrae near the base of his skull, but Saunders has no recollection of his experience during his roamings, and did not even know of the abdication of the Duke of Windsor or of the Spanish and Chinese conflicts.

Safety Posters Placed In Schools

LOOK BOTH WAYS BEFORE CROSSING

If the simple slogan—Look Both Ways Before Crossing—were more generally observed, thousands of pedestrian deaths and injury accidents on our streets and highways would be prevented, according to A. P. Morris, manager of the Columbus County Motor club.

Morris made this statement in connection with the distribution here of the A. A. A. safety poster for December. Hundreds of children will see the poster this month, and teachers will direct their attention to the need for observing this and other simple rules of safety in crossing streets and highways.

The colorful December poster is in bright orange and blue and depicts another street adventure of the popular dog "Ace" and his pups. "Ace," as a character in the 1937-1938 A. A. A. poster series, has caught the interest of thousands of children throughout the country.

Not only is the slogan applicable to the street habits of children, Morris said, but adult pedestrians should take it to heart. Last year, more than 15,000 persons met their death while walking. They literally "walked to death," because many did not observe proper rules of conduct, while others misjudged the speed of approaching cars.

"Our adult population must learn to observe the simple rules of street conduct taught our children," he said. "Our children are far ahead of us as careful pedestrians, and much of the credit for their low accident record must go to the teachers of America who constantly remind the youngsters to LOOK BOTH WAYS BEFORE CROSSING."

JAPANESE OPEN GENERAL ATTACK

Strike From All Sides At Nanking In Face of Chinese Defiance

SHANGHAI, Dec. 10.—Japanese forces struck from all sides of Nanking in a general attack which the Japanese spokesmen declared to- night had put the Chinese capital "in the process of falling."
The attack was launched when the Chinese commander, General Tang Seng-Chi, refused to heed Japanese General Iwane Matsui's ultimatum to surrender the city by noon or face a general assault.
Four hours later Japanese as- serted a part of the 100,000 troops encircling the city had captured Purple mountain overlooking Nanking. Chinese positions on the hill previously had kept the Japanese from a frontal assault.

"Assumes" They're In
Six hours later the Japanese spokesman said he "assumed" that Japanese troops already had pene- trated Nanking's great wall and were engaged in "mopping up op- erations," which he explained meant street fighting.
The spokesman said he had no details of the operations.
Asked about his prediction yester- day that Nanking would be cap- tured within 24 hours, he said the

While the Boss Goes Fishing

Japanese victory was not yet achieved, then added:
"But the city is in the process of falling."
Earlier today reports from the front said bitter hand-to-hand fighting was in progress outside Nanking's walls.

There was no report on whether Americans inside Nanking were safe. More than 50 Japanese airplanes supported ground troops in their assault on Nanking.
Gunboat Unscathed
The American gunboat Panay, with four members of the United States embassy staff, several news- paper correspondents and American civilians on board, came unscathed through a bombardment of the Nan- king waterfront.

At Shanghai itself, a group of Chinese representing all Chinese interests and claiming to speak for the city's 3,000,000 Chinese, issued a manifesto defying the Japanese conquest.

Chinese sources continued to as- sert that the Japanese battleship Nagato and five other vessels, in- cluding one cruiser, had been sunk at Kiangyin. Japanese issued no denial and there was some belief in foreign circles that the report might be true.
Chinese declared that guerrilla bands of Chinese in North China had forced Japanese to fall back at a number of points mann's other victims—a taxi driver, Jean Couffy, and A. Broker.

After the body of the broker, Roger Lebond, was found, police said, Millon and the blonde van- ished from their Paris apartment.
Investigators said an effort will be made to learn if the woman was the blonde who vanished after cashing several of Miss DeKoven's traveler's checks and who was said to have carried the Brooklyn girl's passport.

That "mystery woman" was ac- companied by a man who the de- tectives said, might have been Mil- lion.
She Was First Victim
The first of the gang's victims, according to Weidmann's confes- sion, was the 22-year-old American girl whose body was unearched yester- day from under the front porch of a suburban St. Cloud villa.
The stranger's card was said to be knotted into the flesh of her neck.
The investigation of the girl's dis- appearance had run into dead ends until Weidmann was arrested Wed- nesday for questioning in the dis- covery of the body of a French rental agent on the death villa—Vile La Voulte.

The prisoner was said to have confessed shooting Raymond Le- bond, the real estate man, after robbery as the motive, after luring him to the suburban house. He then confessed the girl's death, po- lice said.

Birds Will Be Fed By Salem Scouters
The birds around Salem aren't going to suffer from hunger this winter if the Boy Scouts have any- thing to say about it.
In connection with their conser- vation program and preservation of wild life, the Salem Scouts plan to scatter food from time to time, especially during heavy snows, so that the birds can have something to eat.
Scout Commissioner Eddie How- e, announced that his boys were going to place some of the bread crumbs and grain in trees.

"Beauty's A Charm" by HARRIET HINSDALE

CHAPTER XXIV
Lucy Lee did not know how long she sat there in the darkness, trying to think of a way out of her dilemma. She was afraid to leave the light in order to go to his. Some one might see her. There was a slight sound outside, imperceptible except to straining ears. Neville was coming! She rose, shaking, and clung to the back of the chair. She must make him understand—

But he would not. He knew it was only her panic of the moment. A few minutes ago she had loved him, or so she had said. She could not have changed so quickly and without reason.

His fierce whisper burned her cheek as she tried to hold herself away from his embrace. She begged him to go—tomorrow she would explain.

For reply he only kissed her, his arms tightening in a tense, hard grip like steel bands she could not break. This was not the Neville she had known, gentle and wooing, but some unrestrained and frightening stranger. She was suddenly terrified—panic stricken—sensing the instinctive fear of captive woman. Yet she dared not scream.

There was a sound from the darkness and they stood immobile, changed to stone.... listening. An instant flash of light from an electric torch illuminated the interior of the tent for a second, revealing them as they stood embraced, faces flushed and eyes unnaturally brilliant. In that lightning gleam they saw Pearl standing at the tent entrance. Then utter blackness again, pierced by her hoarse whisper.

"I thought that was where I would find you, Neville Preston! You dirty chiseler. How long has this been going on?"

Preston's arms dropped away and Lucy Lee moved quickly toward where Pearl was standing. "Oh, Pearl, I'm so glad you came. It's all a mistake. Neville was leaving—"

Pearl's low laugh was not pleasant. "What kind of a fool do you take me for?" she exclaimed. "How long has it been going on, I said?" "Listen, Pearl," Preston whispered. "Don't make a scene, for God's sake. You won't want to rouse the camp."

"What the hell do I care for the camp? If you think you can double cross me and get away with it, you're crazy!" Gone was the veneer. Pearl had reverted to her riverboat days. "You can't two-time me, you dirty bum. No baby-face doll is gonna step into my place. You're mine and I still want you. See?"

"Pearl, for the love of God—I can explain."

This is like some scene in a play or a picture, Lucy Lee thought. It can't be real. What Pearl is saying can't be true. It's too horrible. Pearl and Neville—

Three people standing close together in the darkness, unable to see each other except as dim gray shapes, indefinite and eerie. Their voices tuned to hoarse whispers, tearing ugly shreds. Uttering words which soared. Souls for the moment revealed in all their dreadful nakedness.

"Explain nothing!" Pearl retorted. "You must think I'm blind. Neville Preston. Don't you suppose I'm wise to the way you've been trying to play us both? I'll admit you're clever but you can't get away with it. Big Boy. Not with me, you can't. Even if she's too dumb to know what's going on. She and her fool of a father. I'm through with them. They can both go to blazes, for all I care!"

"Pearl, please—you must calm down. We don't want a scandal. Sweetheart—listen—"

It sickened Lucy Lee to hear him pleading, almost abject. And the sudden change in Pearl's voice as she replied: "You know I'm only jealous because I'm so crazy about you. Neville. I'm not going to give you up to anybody. Not yet—"

They were close together now, not even aware that she passed them as she made her stumbling way out of the tent. Her one thought was to get as far from them as possible. She felt contaminated, tainted by contact with dark and sinister passions. It was as if a black pit had suddenly opened at her feet and she had gazed down into noisome depths from which she drew back shuddering and afraid. Another step—and she too would have been down there with them.

Pearl and Neville—
She fled blindly through the trees—trying to run away from waking memory, not heeding directions, stumbling, her clothing caught in clutched branches, breath coming in painful gasps.

While she had imagined herself in love with Neville and he with her, this had been going on, his seeming friendship, his interest in her career meant less than nothing. She heard something laughing—

That was odd, out here in the woods at night. She stopped, listening. Why, it was her own voice! She was laughing. But at what? Oh, yes....

Her career!
What a joke that was. Who wouldn't laugh? Neville knew as well as she did that she would never be an actress. He had simply pretended he was going to make her famous, for only one reason. Probably everybody else but herself had laughed at it, long ago—only she hadn't realized it. She was just dumb, as Pearl said.

She began to sob, shivering with cold and nervous reaction. The bark of a great tree against which she leaned her throbbing forehead was rough and damp with night dew. She felt bruised and shaken, as though the last of Pearl's venomous tongue had been physical chastisement.

How Pearl hated her. Probably always had hated her ever since the winning of the beauty prize which she herself had hoped to get. Again Lucy Lee laughed hysterically through her racking sobs.

Beauty Prize!
What a joke that was. What had it brought her except envy and unhappiness and disillusionment? Just as had happened to so many others. If it had not been for the beauty prize she would still be at home in Rosemead with Clyde loving her as he had always done.

She jerked her mind back from Rosemead and the past. There was something she was trying to remember about Clyde. What was it? Oh, yes.... the radio that Bruce Loring's airplane was reported missing and Clyde was with it. They had gone on that hunting trip to Mexico. And nothing had been heard from them for twelve hours.

She stared into the darkness, seeing nothing, eyes suddenly wide with horror. Why, at this very moment Clyde might be lying in the wreckage of that plane, badly hurt—perhaps dying. Or maybe already dead. And except for her it would never have happened!

The thought was unbearable. She must shake it off. Her head was splitting. She was shivering and yet her head felt hot as she held it between clenched fists and swayed for a second in depths of mental and physical agony. She had no idea how far she had come from camp. But she must go back.... must get back.

With hands extended to prevent bumping into trees and bushes, she started back in what she supposed was the direction of camp. The darkness was terrifying and there had been stories at dinner of mountain lions prowling the forest.

There came an opening in the trees. In front of her suddenly a different blackness and she knew that it was the dark waters of the lake. Before it was possible to halt her feet were at the very edge of the high cliff. The loose earth was crumbling. Her clutching fingers caught only the empty air. She was sliding, slipping, falling down the rocky precipice to the shore of the lake below. Her flesh was being torn as she grasped at the savage rocks, trying to find foothold or handhold.

Once she screamed, not knowing that she did.

"Clyde!" she cried.
And once again: "Clyde"—as her head struck a sharply projecting rock. Then she fell backward in an inert mass and lay crumpled and unconscious on a narrow, outjutting ledge twenty feet above the level of the black, still water waiting below.

When Lucy Lee failed to appear for six-thirty breakfast in the dining hall, Neville Preston sent the company maid and hairdresser to the tent to waken her. The maid returned with the report that Miss Carter's tent was empty and her bed had apparently not been slept in. No one had seen her that morning.

Pearl, emerging from her own quarters, pressed alarm, and as there was no response to the calls of the men and the tooting of automobile horns a search party set out to find the missing girl.

Several hours passed before she was discovered, lying in a precarious position on a narrow ledge above the lake. It was some time after that before she was brought safely to the top.

When at last the unconscious body was laid tenderly on a pile of blankets, they bent over her solicitously.

"Is she dying?" Preston exclaimed. "My God, how are we going to get her to a hospital? The nearest town that has one is almost a hundred miles away. I'm afraid she will die before we can get her there."

"Oh, this is terrible—terrible," Pearl cried. "Poor little Lucy Lee." Restoratives failed to bring her out of her stupor and it was decided to take her down the mountain immediately. A bed was arranged on the bottom of a work wagon and with the maid as nurse, the journey began. Within a few hours Lucy Lee was in the nearest hospital and the news of the accident reached the world outside.

(To Be Continued)

LONDON—For the first time since its foundation 105 years ago, the British Medical Association is making a direct appeal to the public through advertising in newspapers. Advertisement in any form by doctors is forbidden by the General Medical Council, and the B. M. A. has refrained from advertising its activities.

Lehman to Wed

Peter Lehman, son of New York's rich and socially prominent Governor, is pictured above with his bride-to-be, 17-year-old Peggy Lashanska. Rosebush, Peggy is the daughter of the world-famous operatic and concert soprano, Hilda Lashanska.

Syrians Take Their Rioting Seriously

Police clubs were busy here when rioting broke out after a group of dissidents clashed with authorities when their demonstration was broken up at Beirut, Syria, in front of the government palace. The recent decision of the Syrian government to abolish all political societies was indirect cause of the riot. Scores were injured.

Murphy Predicts Better Times

Guest of honor at the dinner of the Survey Associates in New York City, Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, is pictured above with Mrs. August Belmont. Murphy said that "better times are in store when industry treats its workers as men, not as part of the machinery of production."

Theater Attractions

The newest comedy, "It's Love I'm After," showing at the State theater and Saturday, stars Bette Davis and Leslie Howard. Olivia DeHavilland, Patric Knowles, Eric Blore and George Barbier have prominent parts.

Mrs. Davis and Howard, portraying favorites of the legitimate stage, are in love with each other, but each being a scene stealer, they wrangle and fight in whispers while they play the Romeo and Juliet love scene. Howard, susceptible to any pretty girl's charm, meets Miss DeHavilland, an heiress. She immediately loses interest in her fiancé, Patric Knowles, and pursues Howard.

Runs Into Troubles
The fiance demands that Howard, who is planning to be married immediately to Miss Davis, make Miss DeHavilland "fall out of love." Howard, forgetting his wife-to-be, goes off to Miss DeHavilland's home to make himself obnoxious to her. His efforts only make her love him more and Howard finds himself with an irate jilted fiance, an inane sweetheart and an enraged jilted bride.

The story is cleverly worked out, the comedy good. The picture, in which Miss Davis and Howard are costars for the third time, is one of the best bits of recent film entertainment.

At the Grand tonight and Saturday is "Public Cowboy No. 1," featuring the popular western player and singer, Gene Autry, and Ann Rutherford, young film actress. Autry and his pal, Smiley Burnette, round up modern cattle rustlers who are butchering the cattle, packing it in refrigerator cars and selling it in a nearby city. Autry and Burnette succeed in catching the thieves after several smart city sleuths have failed.

WINONA

The Winona Homemaker's club met last week at the home of Mrs. Arthur Oliphant. Rebecca Gamble was the leader in charge of the following program: Roll call, a New Year's thought or resolution; a paper by Mrs. Megrahn, "Christmas Customs in Foreign Lands"; Olive Hall, a poem, "The New Year"; Mabel Satterthwaite, an original poem, "The Homemaker's Club"; a paper, "New Year's in Other Lands" by Rachel Gamble; a poem, "Farewell to The Old Year" by Lena Gamble. The next meeting will be held in the evening for members and their families, at the primary school house. Alice Satterthwaite will be the new leader, and Mary Steer, Alta Stratton and Esther Edgerton were appointed on the refreshment committee. It is planned to have some form of educational moving pictures presented by James Baker, Youngstown Junior High School teacher, as a feature of the program.

Class Meeting
The Adult Educational class met Friday at the home of Mrs. Arthur London. "Sheets and Blankets" was the topic of the study hour. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. E. Y. Gamble.

William Stratton entertained the members of the seventh and eighth grades of the Winona school at a party at his home south of Winona Friday evening. The evening was spent with games and contests. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Mary Whitacre was honor guest recently at a family reunion held at the home of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Whitacre of Louisville. Twenty-three children, grandchildren and great grandchildren from Cleveland, Akron, Alliance and Salem attended.

Mrs. Mary Benedict and Miss Gladys Halderman of Salem visited Mrs. Whitacre last week.

Mrs. Howard Holloway, north of Salem, is caring for her mother, Mr. Joshua Brantingham who recently underwent an operation at the Central Clinic.

Guests In Gamble Home
Miss Ethel Packer and Miss Mary Walker, teachers from Adena, were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Gamble Saturday.

Mrs. Laura Coffee and Mrs. Zella Dunn of Salem, and Mrs. Elizabeth Rayle and Mr. R. I. Rayl of New Springfield attended the Methodist church at Winona Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kirk and family of Middleton were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Brantingham Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andre, Miss Mary Andre and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hutton spent Sunday at Oberlin college as guests of Miss Ruth Forsythe.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Peacock and son David of Canton were Sunday guests of Mrs. Rachel Gamble.

10,000 Feet in the Air

Manos Morgan, 26-year-old South Dakotan, is pictured 10,000 feet above Bay Farm Island, Oakland, Cal., gliding in his 101st bat flight. For a minute and a half he looped and whirled like a bird, then at 1,400 feet pulled his ripcord and landed safely. His bat wings are 8 1/2 feet across, made of steel tubing and airplane fabric. Between his legs is a fabric web.

Junior Saxons Plan Class B Court Team

Salem Junior Saxons, at a meeting last night, made plans to enter a boys basketball team in the city Class B league. The team will be under supervision of Michael Linder.

Members discussed having a case made for the basketball, softball, golf and bowling trophies which have been won by the various club teams. Among the awards is a basketball trophy given to the Salem team in recognition of its four years championship in competition with teams of other Junior Saxon organizations.

The resignation of Rudolph Bodendorfer as president was accepted by the club. He will be succeeded by Martin Polder, former vice president. Alfred Konnerth was named to the vice presidency.
Konnerth is also vice president of the National Transylvanian Saxons
Junior association.

Miss Mary Untch was received as a new member. Two guests, Alfred Krauss and Paul Schmidt, Youngstown, attended.

Saved From Fire

ATHENS, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Forest Pierce rescued her four-year-old daughter from her flaming home near Nelsonville yesterday, but was unable to re-enter the building to save her nine-month-old son.

The fire resulted when oil the mother used to start a fire exploded.

New Dog Licenses Go On Sale Dec. 15

LISBON, Dec. 10.—Dog owners may secure licenses for their pets on and after Dec. 15, according to an announcement today by Auditor John Irwin's office.

The tags will be on sale in the court house on and after this date.
No change in prices will be made this year. Over 8,000 licenses were sold this year, topping the 1935 figure by nearly 600.

Dog Warden Daniel Butch will ask authority to make a house-to-house check to see that dog owners have licenses. He believes close to 10,000 tags can be sold in 1938 if this is done.

Protest Rate Hike

CINCINNATI, Dec. 10.—A protest made by Miami valley paper manufacturers against a proposed railroad rate advance scheduled for Dec. 20 was on its way to the interstate commerce commission today.

Harold D. Nichols, who filed the protest for the manufacturers, said it was directed especially against any increase in rates on wood pulp from the south.

NAIROBI.—A lion and a hippopotamus fought to the death in a muddy pool in the delta of the River Rufiji, Tanganyika. The hippopotamus, half submerged, probably was mistaken for the lion for a wild pig. The hippopotamus gored the lion many times with its great tusks, inflicting mortal wounds.

How the Spud Feud Started

Washington is in the throes of a potato controversy. It was started when nearly a half million pounds of Idaho potatoes were sent to the capital.
Representatives White (standing) and Clark (left) of Idaho added insult to injury by inviting Representative Ralph O. Brewster (right) of Maine to partake of an Idaho spud feast. Brewster promptly ordered several thousand pounds of Maine potatoes rushed to Washington. So war is on.

Sheriff's Finger Broken In Tussle At East Liverpool

LISBON, Dec. 10.—Sheriff Harry
L. Gosney today was still feeling the effects of an altercation with a ward of the Massillon state hospital Thursday afternoon.

Counting his injuries, the sheriff found he had suffered a broken little finger on his right hand and had received a black eye and a kick in the jaw.

He went to East Liverpool to pick up Thomas Beaver, 35, of that city, following a call from Dr. Arthur G.
Hyde, head of the Massillon institution. The sheriff was accompanied by Constable "Ducky" Clarke of East Palestine.

When Beaver sighted the officers he protested being handcuffed by throwing things at the men. The sheriff, as the story goes, failed to dodge a chair.

Finally shackled, the prisoner was whisked away to Massillon by Deputies Otto Stacey and Mike Duty, who arrived a short time after the sheriff had put in an emergency call.

Service Planned By Wesleyan Class

Wesleyan class of the Methodist church will sponsor a "Ladies Day" service Sunday at the church. All other women's organizations, missionary societies and classes are cooperating. Men and boys of the church will be guests.

Mrs. Guy Byers, president of the Wesleyan group, will be speaker.
Her topic will be "Fifty Years In Saddle and Buckles." The choir will furnish special music and Miss Doris Tetlow will sing a variation of "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

All church members are invited to attend.

that Americanism is the only true
"ism."

Berg Named President

The commissioners association elected Conrad Berg of Leetonia as president. He succeeds H. C. Power of Ashtabula county.

Berg had been vice president.
Other new officers are: Vice president, Archie Stone, Geauga county;
secretary, Charles McLaughlin, Columbiana county.

Fifty-nine commissioners and guests were present from Columbiana, Mahoning, Trumbull, Stark, Portage, Ashtabula, Geauga, Summit and Cuyahoga counties.

R. R. Goddard, a Trumbull county commissioner, opened a discussion of specific relief problems, explaining a case where Trumbull county had five persons in particular who had purchased homes in that county, moving from Mahoning county.

They "went broke" financially inside of one year and then applied to Trumbull authorities for relief.
Under the federal rules, in this case, the first county (Mahoning) was supposed to finance these clients, Goddard said. But Mahoning commissioners declared that the relief clients purchased property in Trumbull and automatically became citizens of that section.

Goddard further explained that several Trumbull residents moved into Mahoning county within the year and Trumbull officials are taking care of them. Goddard charged Mahoning county has shown no reciprocity, and asked that some action be taken to clarify the matter.

This question and another were submitted to the legislative committee for a report at the next meeting, which probably will be held in Youngstown with the Mahoning commissioners as hosts.

The other question discussed involved the diversion of gasoline tax funds for other purposes, such as relief. One commissioner suggested having the state supreme court rule on whether this can be done. Another official moved that the commissioners and the state highway department work together to have a constitutional amendment passed to clear up the issue.

Class To Observe 26th Anniversary

Loyal Women's class of the Christian church will observe the class' 26th anniversary Sunday, attending morning worship, when special music will be featured.

At 6:30 p. m. members will entertain friends at a tea in the church rooms. All friends of the class, including those from Presbyterian and Methodist churches, are invited to attend.

Christian, Methodist and Presbyterian congregations will attend the union evening service at the Christian church when the speaker will be Rev. Eugene Beach of Youngstown. The speaker was brought here by the Loyal Women's class. Other features of the service will be appropriate for the anniversary.

Estate Insolvent

Michigan Coach Is First Of Big Time Grid Mentors To Get "Axe" This Year

KIPKE IS LONE PREY FOR GRID WOLVES SO FAR

No Changes Looming In Other Major Football Leagues

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The football wolves, who start howling about this time every year for juicy portions of coaches' scalps, don't figure to do much eating this winter.

They're enjoying a full meal at the moment, in Harry Kipke, Michigan's "ex," but aside from him, and possibly a few others, such as Harry Mehre, who already has resigned at Georgia, the "cholesterol" morsels probably will be few and far between.

The general impression around and about seems to be that if the Wolves want to howl—well, let 'em. Take Clark Shaughnessy at Chicago for instance. It's been many a day since the Maroon made any kind of a showing against big time grid-iron rivals. But no one at Chicago is making any passes at Clark.

Three of the major conferences, the Southwest, Big Six and Rocky Mountain, so far are standing pat on what they have. And in the Big Ten, aside from Kipke, the pilots have no immediate cause for worry.

Michigan may follow up by swinging the ax at Kipke's staff of assistants, notably Line Coach Hunk Anderson, provided the next mentor, whoever he may be, says so. General conjecture as to Kipke's successor mentions Gus Dorais, Detroit's highly successful pilot, Irwin Uteriz, former Michigan quarterback, now assisting at California, and (as a dark horse) Benny Friedman, Michigan's former passing great, who has just wound up a satisfactory season at City College of New York.

On the Pacific coast, no immediate changes appear in prospect. In the deep south, three resignations already have been handed in. At Georgia, the athletic board accepted Mehre's quitting notice. His former backfield coach, Red Enright, is mentioned as his successor.

Most interest at the moment centers on Mississippi State, where alumni and faculty leaders were reported as reaching a decision to offer Bernie Bierman, head coach of Minnesota's mighty Gophers, the coaching job. The berth was vacated when Lieut. Col. Ralph Sasse was forced to resign because of ill health. Also resigning in Dixie was Shorty Probst, from Southwestern of Tennessee.

In the east, Boston college holds the spotlight. Gloomy Gil Davis hasn't been a howling success with the Eagles, and you hear talk his tenure may end. But Gloomy Gil has another year remaining on a three-year $10,000 contract, and it's doubtful if it will be terminated. Fritz Crisler at Princeton and Harvey Harman at Pennsylvania have come in for plenty of criticism for their weak 1937 showings, but there'll be no moves to replace them.

BILTMORE GOLF TOURNAMENT OPENS

More Than 200 Golfers Tee Off In First Round of Event

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 10.—More than 200 golfers, including some of the nation's best, teed off today in the $10,000 Miami Biltmore open in their first duel with old man par under the 14-club rule. Hitherto they have been able to use as many and as varied weapons as they liked, but tournament officials decided to give the U. S. Golf association's 14-club limit a tryout three weeks in advance of its effective date, Jan. 1.

Under the rule players must use the same 14 clubs they start with, said Fred Cocoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, who obtained an interpretation from the U. S. G. A.

Harold W. Pierce of Boston, chairman of the U. S. G. A. championship committee, telegraphed, "replacements may be made only if a club is rendered unfit for play and then may only be replaced by an identical club."

Clubhouse circles installed Harry Cooper and Ralph Guldahl, last year's winner, as co-favorites at 8 to 1.

Others in the field include Denny Shute, P. G. A. champion, and five former National Open champions—Tony Manero, Tommy Armour, Bill Burke, Johnny Ferrell and Willie MacFarlane.

Leads Bowl Team

EAST LANSING, Mich., Dec. 10.—By virtue of his election as honorary football captain of Michigan State college for 1937, Harry Speelman, tackle, today was his team's choice to lead his mates against Auburn in the New Year's day Orange Bowl game at Miami, Fla.

Feud Between Jack Dempsey And Gene Tunney Continues

Former Ring Rivals Vie For Honors In Visits To Schmeling and Thomas Training Camps

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—It begins to appear like this Dempsey-Tunney feud will go on forever in one form or another.

Ten years it's been since they last met under the ring lights at Chicago but they're still at it worse than the Hatfields and the McCoys.

Tunney started it again the other day when he suddenly went all democratic and paid a long, homey visit to Max Schmeling's training quarters at Summit, N. J. Everybody realized at the time it was a deliberate steal of Dempsey's stuff, and they predicted Jack would not take it lying down.

After all, being the most democratic of all ex-heavyweight champions is Jack's chief stock in trade.

So Jack struck back yesterday. Appearing in a cloud of cigar smoke at the training camp of Harry Thomas, who fights Schmeling at the Garden Monday night, the old mauler did 10 rounds of demagoguing that made Tunney's effort look puny by comparison.

He started with a fast three rounds in the Camp Tavern, during which he shook hands with 18 sports writers, eight sparring partners and six other citizens who just chanced in. Warmed up, he tore through the noon meal behind a barrage of bruised hands and burned feet, and finished off in a red-hot Kelly-pool game with all the prize fighters around the camp.

It was a grand exhibition, considering the length of time Jack has been out of active training, and he finished without taking a deep breath. Gene Tunney, the critics agreed, will think a second time before he stirs up Dempsey again.

Jack got one poor break, however. Tunney, after witnessing Schmeling work out, was in a position to predict that the German would win his championship back by a knockout. Thomas' showing, on the other hand, left Jack and everybody else practically speechless.

MIAMI TO PLAY LOOP OPPONENT

Redskins Scheduled For Game With Marshall; Rumors Cease

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—Miami University, whose student paper sports editor, John Horton, has been pointing "accusing fingers" at a couple of other Buckeye conference schools, took some of the "fire" out of this week's conference meeting today by announcing its 1938 football schedule.

And... Despite rumors that the Redskins would not play Marshall next season, the "Thundering Herd" champions are parked right there in that Oct. 8 spot, for a contest on the West Virginia gridiron.

The Redskins, for the first time since 1928, trimmed their slate to eight games, nine contests having made up the menu for the past nine seasons.

The ninth game was dropped to bring about an open date in the middle of the season, and, oddly enough, the week's layoff comes between Marshall and Dayton contests.... The "baby" members of the circuit which finished "one-two" in the recent campaign.

Toledo and Marietta, 1937 foes, are missing from the '38 slate. Mt. Union taking over one of the places for a home-and-home series extending through 1939.

Here's the Miami layout for next season:

Sept. 24—Alma (Mich.); Oct. 1—At Mount Union; Oct. 8—at Marshall; Oct. 15—Open; Oct. 22—Dayton; Oct. 29—At Ohio Wesleyan; Nov. 5—Ohio University; Nov. 12—At Case; Nov. 24—At Cincinnati.

That schedule calls for the Miami club to meet the other five Buckeye teams, which put an end to arguments that the Redskins might cancel at least one contest, at least until the loop moguls get together here Saturday morning in the session which probably will "make or break" the league.

Coch George Gauthier of Ohio Wesleyan summed up the possible outcome of the session with: "either nothing will happen, or a school or two will drop out of the league, or the conference will disband."

LIST ELIGIBLES FOR GRID GAME

Washington, Chicago Pro Squads Named For Title Tilt

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—Joe P. Carr, president of the National Professional Football league, announced today the players who are eligible to compete at Chicago next Sunday in the game between the Washington Redskins and the Chicago Bears for the world championship.

Each club will have the full number of 25 players allowed by the player limit, he said. The list of eligible players follows:

Chicago Bears: Frank Bausch, Delbert Bjork, Ray Buivid, William Conkright, Beattie Feathers, Sam Francis, Daniel J. Fortmann, William Karr, Jack Manders, Edgar Manske, Bernie Masterson, Lester McDonald, Keith Molesworth, Ernest Rentner, George Musso, Bronko Nagurski, Raymond Nolting, Dick Plasman, Gene Ronzani, Frank J. Sullivan, Joe Stydahar, Milton Trost, J. R. Thompson, Joe Zeller and George Wilson.

Washington: James Barber, Cliff Battles, Sam Baugh, Edward J. Britt, Victor Carroll, Glen Edwards, Donald Erwin, W. "Dixie" Howell, Edward Justice, Edwin Kahn, James Karcher, Edward Kaval, Edward Michaels, Henry and Max Krause, Wayne Milner, Charley Malone, Bob McChesney, Lester Olsson, Erny Pinckert, George W. Smith, Riley Smith, William Young, Ben Smith and Charles Bond.

BROWN EXPECTS TROUBLE AHEAD WITH NEW BALL

Seamless Leather Proves Tough For Quakers To Handle

The rocky road to state scholastic basketball fame, one of bumps, upsets and reverses, opens up for Coach Herb Brown's 1937-38 edition of Salem High school Quakers tonight.

Facing an exceptionally tough opponent for a first game, the Quakers invade Niles to meet Coach Kenneth Webber's Niles McKinley High cagers. The contest will be played on the Washington Junior High court, starting at about 8:30 and following a reserve game.

Although usually scheduled for a warm-up contest to open the season, the Quakers will have no such a game against the Niles quintet, which Coach Webber considers one of his best in recent years.

Niles, in past years, has been a late-season opponent of the Quakers, but this year the schedule-makers twisted their bookings so that the McKinley cagers came up first in the Quakers court campaign.

In addition to encountering stiff opposition in their first appearance, the Quakers will face the added difficulties of starting off on a strange floor and playing with the new seamless ball.

Use of the new type ball, which is both seamless and laceless, is the request of Coach Webber of Niles. The Quakers will use the old ball in their home games.

Coach Brown expects the new leather to furnish the Quakers their greatest amount of trouble. During practice this week the Red and Black cagers have used the ball, but have experienced difficulty in handling, and shooting it.

Some of the players maintain that the new ball is inclined to curve while enroute to the basket, while others claim the absence of seams cuts down the shooting accuracy and gives the ball greater "English" off the backboard.

Tonight's game is one of 16 on the Quakers regular schedule. They will play their first home game next Wednesday night when they meet Boardman on the local court.

One starting position, a forward, remains uncertain in the Quakers lineup, but the remainder of the team will have Max Lutsch at center, Bill Schaeffer and Gilbert Everhart at guards and Ollie Olexa at forward.

Either Jim Dickey or Amos Dunlap will be named as a running mate for Olexa at forward.

There is a possibility that Lutsch may not start because of a cold which has kept him out of practice several days this week.

SEASON DUCATS TO GO ON SALE

Tickets for Salem High Basketball Games To Sell for $2.25

Frederick E. Cope, faculty manager of athletics at Salem High school, announced today that season tickets for Salem High's eight home basketball games will go on sale at the J. H. Lease and N. L. Reich stores Monday afternoon.

The season booklet, good for the Quakers games with Lisbon, Youngstown East, Warren, Massillon, East Liverpool and Wellsville, will sell for $2.25.

Single admission prices for home games will be 40 cents for a reserved seat, 35 cents for general admission and 25 cents for students, Cope said.

The Quakers, who open their 1937-38 season at Niles tonight, will meet Lisbon in their first home game next Wednesday night.

Stays With Reds

DELAND, Fla., Dec. 10.—Pat Patterson, playing manager of the Deland Reds baseball team for the past two seasons, preferred today to maintain his connection with the Cincinnati Reds, so he won't pilot the Deland club next year.

Cincinnati's working agreement with Deland ended with the past season. Patterson said he probably would be sent to another Cincinnati training farm, possibly Durham, N. C.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—The Columbus American Association baseball club has drafted Pitcher Clem Dreiswerd from the Richmond Piedmont league club, Secretary Charles Huth announced today.

BAUGH TO TEST SKILL AGAINST NATION'S BEST

Washington Passing Ace To Oppose Some of Greatest Backs

By EARL HILLIGAN.
CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—How much better a football player is Sammy Baugh now than when he finished his collegiate career?

That is one question which will be uppermost in the minds of thousands of fans at Wrigley field Sunday when the Washington Redskins, eastern titlholders, and the Chicago Bears, western section rulers, tangle for the 1937 National Professional Football league championship.

Baugh, at Texas Christian university, was recognized generally as one of the greatest forward passers ever developed in college circles. But as a freshman sensation of the pro league of the Redskins this season it begins to appear that Baugh as a collegian may have been just a novice at the game when compared to Baugh of the play-for-pay circuit.

There isn't much question that Slinging Sammy is better now than when, as a member of the Collegiate All-Stars, his pass helped whip the Green Bay Packers Sept. 1. It's a question of how much better.

To stand out in Sunday's title battle, Baugh will have to outshine some of the greatest players the pro league ever has known. Among the backs Baugh will oppose will be such luminaries as Bronko Nagurski, Jack Manders, Beattie Feathers, Ray Nolting and Bernie Masterson.

The contest, which more than 40,000 fans are expected to watch despite probable near-zero temperatures, may develop into a battle of lines.

There has been little wagering on the contest, probably because of Washington's furious drive to the title in the final weeks.

With the bitter cold holding indoors, both teams headed in-doors for final strenuous drills.

KINGSTON, N. Y. — Sheriff's deputies reported sighting a band of wild dogs near here. The dogs have caused an estimated $1,000 damage to livestock, authorities reported.

Class A High School Cage Champs Rely On Reserve

Hamilton Team Hit Hard by Graduation; First String Team Missing This Season

(By Associated Press)
HAMILTON, Dec. 10.—If veteran material is a requisite for a winning basketball team, a new Ohio Class A high school champion probably will be named next March at the annual tournament in Columbus.

The entire first string which carried Hamilton High through an undefeated season last winter, culminating in the winning of that school's lone state championship, was lost via graduation and Coach Lew Hirt is building from the ground up this year.

Hamilton's 1937-38 hopes are wrapped up in last year's reserve squad, which won 15 of 16 games, and Lettermen Warren Scheller and Chester Lairson, second stringers on the title aggregation.

Ohio university was the winner in the scramble for the graduating members, the Bobcats getting five of the first six players. On Coach Brandon (Butch) Grover's freshman team at Athens are Carl Ott, guard and captain of the All-Ohio team; Garland Munz, All-Ohio center; Louis Beer, guard; Vernon Deiner, forward, and Sy Johnson, guard. Clifton Towles, sixth member of the championship team, did not go to college.

Coach Hirt used 29 players in the double-header opening of this year's campaign, but only the holdover lettermen loomed as being sure of their berths. By winning both contests, Hamilton ran its unbeaten string to 29, the 1936-37 team being the only unbeaten squad in the state.

Hirt, starting his eighth year here, has watched his teams win 116 games while losing 38. Hamilton, over that period, has outscored its foes 4,239 to 3,043. A native Hoosier, Hirt follows the Indiana style of play.

Three-Way Trade

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—Four players were slated today for different berths with the American Association under a three-way trade announced by the Indianapolis baseball club. Indianapolis will send Outfielder Fred Berger to St. Paul, which will send Outfielder Bill Norman and Infielder Joe Coscarat to Hollywood, and Hollywood's Outfielder Frank Doljack will come here.

Capital university, of Columbus, Ohio, smothered an Alumni aggregation 35 to 25. Desales college, of Toledo, opened the season with a 37 to victory over Tiffin Business university at Toledo.

Kent State defeated Youngs college at Kent, 41 to 28. De Tech squeezed out a 31 to 29 triumph at Cleveland over Foxes.

After grooming a six-foot-inch center from Junior High days at Lairson, Hirt suffered a sad blow this year when the eliminated the center jump field goals.

"And that," Hirt said, "is just another obstacle in our attempt carrying on from where the season's club left off."

BISHOPS WHIP LEAGUE CHAMP

Ohio Wesleyan Defeats Muskingum, 33-39, In League Game

(By Associated Press)
Ohio Wesleyan's Battling Bats took a 4-point tuck last night in the basketball sals of Muskingum strong cage quintet, defeating year's Ohio conference champion 33 to 29 at Delaware.

The Muskies held a 13 to 12 at the half. Scoring honors went Reker, Wesleyan forward, who tributed nine points. Alberta, a kingum center, accounted for goals and four free throws.

At Ada, Heidelberg's Stude Princes conquered Ohio Wesleyan 33 to 31 in an Ohio conference curtain-raiser. Trailing to 12 at half-time, the Pe Bears knotted the score at 21 all—but Heidelberg withstood rally. Martin, Heidelberg guard, looped 10 points.

Xavier university's Muskies shattered Kentucky Wesleyan's fence in the final eight minutes play at Cincinnati to break a 21 tie and defeat the invaders, 32 to 22. At half-time, Xavier held a 9 to lead.

Capital university, of Columbus, Ohio, smothered an Alumni aggregation 35 to 25. Desales college, of Toledo, opened the season with a 37 to victory over Tiffin Business university at Toledo.

Kent State defeated Youngs college at Kent, 41 to 28. De Tech squeezed out a 31 to 29 triumph at Cleveland over Foxes.

CLIPPER SMITH IS CLOSEST TO ROCKNE SYSTEM

Villanova Coach Strict Follower of Famed Irish Mentor

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—What do you think of a football coach who has his punters standing at mid-field for an hour each day and kicking for the "coffin corner" in practice, instead of waiting to get their practicing in the game? Who keeps sending three men into the pit in tackling practices, one to hit the dummy and the other two to recover the resultant fumble? Who leaves so little to chance that once, when suddenly matched with another team for a post-season game, he drove his automobile for two nights and a day in order to scout the new opponent?

That's funny. That's what I think too.

I think it sounds like the late K. K. Rockne all over again and, in case you don't agree, you can get yourself a few spare hours of debate in the City of Philadelphia and, notably, around the campus of Villanova College. By this time, both are quite convinced that when they hired Maurice J. "Clipper" Smith they got themselves a football coach who not only has the winning tradition but comes very near to the Rockne ideal.

Just for the purpose of the record, this was the first "Clipper" Smith to come out of Notre Dame. The second is doing all right at Duquesne, too, but Clipper No. 1 has more or less stolen the show among the Notre Dame Smiths. I'm not so sure, in fact, that he hasn't stolen the show from just about everybody this year.

He's the only coach I know of who has not just one undefeated football team for 1937, but at least part of another. There's no attempt to belittle Buck Shaw at Santa Clara in saying that more than a few of the unbeaten Broncos are legacies from Clipper's regime. Nor am I back-handing Harry Stuhldreher—perhaps rather the contrary—with the statement that Smith took over five or six of Harry's players this year in moulding the currently undefeated Villanova—and the reason is pretty much the same that applied in the case of the Old Master of South Bend, namely: (a) Ingenuity and imagination; (b) unremitting attention to detail.

It was the latter, as much as anything else, that made Rockne great. He never scrimmaged his team after the first week in October. Why? Because mostly he wanted to give each man each day his individual attention, drilling him over and over again in his assignments. You can see the same thing almost any day at Villanova, with added touches like Stopper, Earle, Mellus, Stoviak and Verbitsky, five first class punters, working on the coffin-corner kick sometimes for hours on end.

When the game comes, the play is no longer a gamble; it's a precise strategy. The tackle-and-recovered-fumble idea is generally in line with the Old Man's way of figuring, too, the Old Man having been a great hand at concentrating on the quick score by the simplest route possible. In this connection, Chick Meehan, Manhattan coach, said ruefully after Villanova had beaten him this fall:

"Why, they even scored two touchdowns while we had the ball."

He meant that Villanova recovered one fumble in mid-air and, on a second play, Wysocki and Mellus teamed perfectly to block a punt and score.

The outstanding merit of Smith's methods, however, really made itself plain in the last two games of the season in which Villanova took a couple of really fine defensive teams, Temple and Loyola, and ran up scores of 33 to 0 and 25 to 0, respectively, the latter after a transcontinental jaunt from the chill of Philadelphia to the heat of Los Angeles. Rockne always was quite a man for getting his teams rolling in their final climax games.

He also was quite a man for knowing what he was about when confronted by sudden crises. Last year, when Villanova was matched with Auburn for a post-season game in Havana, Smith was attending a Thanksgiving day game in New York. Upon receipt of the news, he drove his automobile through-out that night, the following day and most of the next night in order to see Auburn play its final game.

Rockne was a coiner of quaint but expressive and vivid phrases. Here are some of Smith's:

"Put a little more bulge in that muscle" (when he wants extra power); "hit that guy with resilient hips and hang him" (when he wants a player to put a real block on an opponent); "he likes leather" (referring to anybody who revels in bodily contact); "they have primitive action" (meaning that his line is charging hard and making quick openings).

The Sage of South Bend will never be duplicated, of course. But the record seems to indicate that Mr. Clipper Smith is not without possibilities. Anyhow, he's doing pretty good right now as an assistant sage.

BALLSTON SPA, N. Y.—Five women and seven men formed a jury in Saratoga county court. One day the women were seen industriously conversing with Frank LaGuardia, a co-juror, prior to convening of court. It was a very serious conversation as the women were getting LaGuardia's recipe for Italian spaghetti.

BOWLING RESULTS

First place in the Commercial Handicap Bowling league was still in the hands of the Salem News today after the Newsies successfully defended their top-ranking position by winning two out of three games from the Grate Recreation five at the Grate alleys last night.

The Sinclairs stayed close on the trail of the News, remaining one game behind by taking two out of three heats with the Salem Polo Club. Smith's creamery pulled from a tie for fifth place into sole possession of third place on the strength of three wins over People's Lumber.

The Pattern Shop moved into a tie with the Machine Shop for first place in the Bliss league at the Masonic temple alleys last night by gaining three wins over the Machine quintet.

Although losing two out of three games to the Bears, the Panthers remained in first place in the Electric Furnace league at the temple lanes.

PAST FOOTBALL SEASON ONE OF VARIED TRENDS

No Nation-Wide Keynote To Gridiron Game As Played In 1937

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Just as 1936 was the season of one major trend in college football, so 1937 was the season of many trends.

The annual Associated Press survey, which has as its object the discovery of which way the football winds are blowing, shows they were blowing every which way. There is so little evidence of a nation-wide keynote, such as last year's increased use of the forward pass, that it seems advisable to list the various trends and the sections in which they were not pronounced.

1. Less forward passing; observed at Villanova, Georgetown, Maryland and George Washington colleges in the east; Marquette, Iowa, the Big Six, Detroit, St. Louis and smaller colleges in Nebraska and Indiana in the mid-west; Duke, Kentucky and the Virginia colleges in the south; Arkansas in the southwest;

2. More forward passing; observed at Villanova, Georgetown, Maryland and George Washington colleges in the east; Marquette, Iowa, the Big Six, Detroit, St. Louis and smaller colleges in Nebraska and Indiana in the mid-west; Duke, Kentucky and the Virginia colleges in the south; Arkansas in the southwest;

3. Less lateral passing; observed virtually everywhere.

4. Stronger defenses, with emphasis on the epidemic-like spread of the five-man line and other freak, or, in the words of Wesley Fry of Kansas State, "crazy" defenses; observed in the east, the Big Six, the Pacific northwest, the Southeastern conference and the Rockies.

5. Increased power and deception in running attacks; observed among others, at Yale, Harvard, West Virginia, Carnegie Tech, Cornell, Rutgers, Maine, Ohio State, Vanderbilt, Southern Methodist, Rice, Texas Christian, California, Washington, Washington State, Southern California and Idaho.

6. Wider use of the field goal, instead of a fourth-down gamble on an "all-or-nothing" play; observed principally in New England, Pennsylvania and the Southeastern conference.

Coaches Meet

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—Ohio conference coaches, athletic directors and faculty advisers gathered here today for a two-day meeting to draft 1938 football schedules and award spring track, baseball, golf and tennis meets.

MARTINS FERRY—The city of Martins Ferry forgot for 37 years that it carried an account in a New York City bank. Recently the bank asked the city to close out the old account. It amounted to $2.

JAPAN'S GOODS FOLLOW TROOPS

Tientsin Becomes Gateway for Commerce As Soldiers Advance

(By United Press)
TIENTSIN, Dec. 10.—(By Mail.)—Japanese guns had barely cleared the 29th Chinese army out of Northern Hopei province before the program for expanded Japanese trade in North China began to take form. Now, weeks later, the effects can be seen.

While incoming Japanese ships bring mostly provisions for the armies and troop replacements, there is also room for Japanese goods which are destined for regular commercial channels.

Reports from the Kobe customs house state that exports to China, where Japan has investments of some $1,200,000,000, dwindled almost to nothing in August but revived in September.

During the past few years the average exports to China were valued at about $60,000 daily. Recently they have come back to almost half that amount.

Food and Textiles First
Principal imports from Japan are wheat, flour, sugar, silk and rayon textiles, paper, knitted goods, cotton textiles, machines for spinning purposes.

A boycott against Japanese goods is fairly effective in most of China except in the north. Consequently, most of the imports are coming through Tientsin. Here the Japanese can market their own goods and even develop lines which had not done so well formerly. This is true particularly of flour.

Further word from Kobe and Osaka is that orders for refined Japanese sugar have come from Peiping and Tientsin. This is because the disturbance in the south has shut off the usual sources.

Japan would welcome news of that nature because its world trade has suffered from the China adventure. Boycott movements have been started all over the world and Japan's retrenchment program, aimed at avoiding foreign purchases where possible, is not going to help its world position.

The combined population of Peiping and Tientsin is about 3,000,000. About 13,000,000 sacks of flour were imported annually from Shanghai. If Japan can get and keep that business it would help greatly.

Offers 3,000,000 Job Plan

Lamont duPont (left), president of the DuPont industrial empire, is pictured with Lewis H. Brown, head of the Johns-Manville Corporation, after he outlined a project for the creation of 3,000,000 jobs at the conference of the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City. He predicted "if government clears the way for industry, a $25,000,000,000 expansion program would smash unemployment."

SALEM, Ore.—Bill Brown, 82, who lives in the Methodist old people's home, which he once endowed with a $25,000 gift, says if he had his life to live over he would settle down with a wife on a small farm instead of building one of the largest ranches in the West.

LONDON—A career which may lead to high executive position in the British aircraft industry has opened for five youths from poor families who are the first holders of the scholarships to be awarded annually by the Society of British Aircraft Constructors.

LIBERTY, Ore.—A clump of iris in the corner of Mrs. C. W. Stacey's garden does not realize it is now in Oregon instead of Beirut, Syria. It's springtime in Syria now and the plant has started to grow despite the fact that winter is approaching in Oregon.

SALEM, Ore. — LeRoy Herschel McCarthy, sentenced to die Jan. 7, 1938, by the administration of lethal gas, goes down as just another "first" in the history of the Oregon penal institution. He was the first slayer in Oregon to receive the lethal gas sentence.
